Happy November!
Thankful for small things, big things, and everything in between!

There's no better month than November to express our thanks. After all, we have a holiday with the word "thanks" built right into its title.

In addition to being grateful for health, family, faith, freedom, and friends, we shouldn't forget that we owe a special debt of gratitude to everyone along the supply chain who provides fresh produce to our region. Whether it's a local farm or a far-away port, the hard-working men and women who grow, harvest, inspect, buy, sell, and transport produce are the backbone of our industry. As wholesalers, we are proud to be a part of the system that puts fresh produce on your store shelves or dinner table.

So don't wait for the fourth Thursday in November to give thanks. Visit us at pwpm.net or, better yet, experience November at the Market for yourself where we have "all the best, all right here."

New York Produce Show and Conference!

Mark your calendar for December 10-13, 2019!

New York Produce Show and Conference is a world-class event in a world-class city. This four day event includes networking opportunities, a one-day trade show of over 400 companies, retail “thought-leader” breakfast panel, educational micro-sessions and tours of the region’s vibrant industry, including local retailers, wholesalers, foodservice distributors, urban farms and unique eateries.

The Philadelphia Wholesale Produce Market will once again participate at the trade show on Thursday, 12/12! Join us at booths 252-256 and we’ll introduce you to the coldest man at the NYPS! Take a selfie with “Chilly Philly” and he’ll give you a warm beanie hat in return. Oh, and did we mention that we’ll be serving up our fresh veggie and Italian hoagies? Back by popular demand, straight from the City of Brotherly Love.

Hope to see you there! For more information, visit nyproduceshow.com
